

Staying at the Conference Hotel is a win-win situation!

Why should I stay at the conference hotel?

- Your executive director has worked hard to negotiate a very competitive nightly rate and has promised that we will fill a certain number of hotel rooms each night during the conference.
- In exchange for reduced rates and room block promises, we receive:
 - free use of the break-out meeting rooms in the hotel;
 - free use of the break-out and general session spaces in the conference center;
 - free use of the exhibit space;
 - reduced food and beverage charges; and
 - reduced rates for audio-visual equipment.

These savings are passed on to you, our conference attendees, in the form of reduced registration rates.

- By staying in the hotel, you also:
 - will be granted free internet access in your guest room;
 - have the most direct and easiest access to conference events and activities;
 - be just steps from great dining options in the hotel and in the famed “Short North” district.

What happens if attendees do not help CSCTFL to meet the contracted room block commitment?

Sadly, but appropriately, If CSCTFL is unable to meet its room-block commitment because attendees elect to stay elsewhere, a significant attrition fee will be charged. This threatens our financial stability and ultimately our ability to continue to offer high-quality, low-cost professional development experiences.

This is the easiest way to ensure that you receive the negotiated room rate and free in-room internet.

Should you choose to reserve by phone, please be sure to let the reservation agent know that you are associated with CSCTFL. Remember:

- conference rates are only available to conference participants.
- free internet in one’s guest room is only available to conference participants.
- CSCTFL only receives credit toward the contracted room block commitment IF you make your affiliation with us clear to the reservation agent!

Please do your part to help CSCTFL remain the friendly and affordable conference by reserving your room at our designated conference hotel!
